

This image shows a top-down view of a microchip layout. The central feature is a large rectangular capacitor with horizontal internal lines. Above it is a smaller inductor with a meandered pattern. To the left, a coupler structure is partially visible. The entire layout is on a light blue background with various colored lines representing different materials or layers.

TiN Inductor

Capacitor

Coupler